

PRAYER WALK 1 - Psalm 27 (adapted)

You are my Source, my Way, my Home

In You I rest secure.

In You I gather strength.

In You I begin to see.

When fear arises

from within or from without

I remember

who you are

and how I am

In You.

Oh that I may dwell in You

day by day, moment by moment.

Then peace would be mine.

Then I could persevere

when the waters threaten to overwhelm.

Then my eyes would be filled with beauty

and my mouth with song.

Then courage and wisdom

would carry me to safe shores.

This I know:

You are.

In You,

I am.

PRAYER WALK 2 - Reflection for the Fifth Week of Lent

The Temple (John 2:13-25)

*After the coins there was silence,
So full you could hear the heavy breathing of the Saviour,
who was hunched on the spot,
looking around him like some madman daring anyone to break the moment.*

*It was heaven's moment,
He knew it, and they knew it.*

*Lord Jesus Christ,
You have fed the hungry
You have touched the leper and picked up the sick child*

You have given sight to the blind man

You have been doing heaven's work

But this, this is new to us!

Heaven has come into its own:

It is dangerous and wild,

like a mad man, a loose cannon, a Che Guevara.

Lord Jesus, do you know you are challenging power?

Pulling the ground from under the system?

Do you know whose interests you are playing with here?

The Lord of Life has raged against injustice

In the very place where justice should be born,

We heard the coins roll and heaven coming into its own.
